When I was younger, about 8 – 9 years old, I enjoyed watching shows like Popular Mechanics, National Geographic, etc. But I regretted watching a simple video for almost 2 years. I learned about sinkholes, what they are, and how they're formed. I was terrified. The video that terrified me the most was the video with a sinkhole with noise coming out. From that day on, I imagined it was the end of times. Everyday, I would act as if it was my last day, spend countless hours reading about sinkholes, how they're formed. So much so, I bothered everybody to the point that they didn't allow me to read anymore. But, that didn't stop me. I reached the point where I couldn't sleep well. Every time I closed my eyes, I would hear babel from the sinkholes and visually see it as if I was falling in one. Eventually, like all kids, I grew out of the phobia.
